ClearViewPM™-EE Dominates Competency Assessment Field in Project Management

Toronto (February 10, 2001) – Bay3000 Consulting Inc, a leading provider of project management consulting and training solutions announced today the availability of the expanded Enterprise Edition version of its popular project management competencies assessment tool. ClearViewPM™-EE delivers the ability for organizations to make strategic investments with regards to how they develop their project management competencies.

With ClearViewPM™-EE, an enterprise is able to focus its attention investment in the areas that are likely to provide this highest return on investment and areas that are directly link to the organizations imperatives. This assessment tool is unique in the industry and will allow organizations to measure their maturity level against best practices, against their targets, examine the gaps, and recommend a clear roadmap to closing the gaps and implement improvements.

The competency models can be used to guide a training needs assessment to help optimize the use of training and development budgets by identifying gaps between job requirements and existing skill levels, perform individual competency assessments to evaluate current project managers or to screen prospective project managers, conduct an organization-wide competency assessment to ensure that the most skilled project managers are assigned to the most critical projects and that the overall decision making and project environment is effective.
