Bay3000 Consulting Inc. Has Been Selected To Instruct At the Project Management Institute's World Symposium in Nashville in November, 2001

Toronto (March 10, 2001) – Bay3000 Consulting Inc, a leading provider of project management consulting and training solutions announced today that it has been invited to instruct at the Project Management Institute's (PMI) upcoming 'First to the Future' World Symposium in Nashville in November 2001. This is the world's premiere project management event.

Bay3000 will deliver their extremely popular course 'Essential Facilitation Skills for Project Managers'. The ability to facilitate a group of people working together is fundamental to keep them focused, motivated and moving forward. Facilitation is not just for specialists; the skills are important to success in any leadership role and should be part of every project managers' interpersonal 'toolkit'. This two-day workshop will introduce participants to a full arsenal of tested facilitation, team problem-solving and communications techniques. This is where they will learn how to use facilitation techniques for effective problem solving, conflict resolution, effective planning workshops, and requirement elicitation.

About PMI

Currently, PMI supports over 86,000 members in 125 countries worldwide. PMI members are individuals practicing and studying project management in many different industry areas, including aerospace, automotive, business management, construction, engineering, financial services, information technology, pharmaceuticals and telecommunications. Over time, PMI has become, and continues to be, the leading professional association in project management.
